

Eyes on the Prize

Designed by Ellie Dix

2-6 players | 25 minutes | Age 8+

Play your cards in the right order to snag the big prizes.

Components:

- 42 number cards
- 7 prize cards
- A method of scoring

Set up:

- Give each player a set of number cards (1-7).
- Shuffle the prize cards and place them face down in a line in the middle of the table.

How to play:

On each round.

- Each player chooses one of their number cards and plays it face down. Then all cards are simultaneously revealed.
- The player who played the highest unique number follows the prize action shown on the card that they won the trick with - as follows:
 - 7: Take a prize card from the middle.
 - 6: Reveal any prize card. Then take a prize card from the middle.
 - 5: Take a prize card from the middle. Then peek at any face down prize card.
 - 4: Peek at any prize card. Then take a prize card from the middle.
 - 3: Take a prize card from the middle. Then swap any two prize cards.
 - 2: Swap any two prize cards. Then take a prize card from the middle.
 - 1: Take a prize card from the middle. Then steal a prize from another player.
- All players now discard their number card to their personal discard pile.
- Repeat this with the other six cards until players have no cards left in their hand.
- Players score the total number of points shown on their prize cards.

Note: Table talk is encouraged. You may tell other players what you choose to do. You can make deals with other players. You do not have to tell the truth.

End Game:

The game ends at the end of the round in which at least one player has achieved 50 points. The player with the most points is the winner.
